SSH Scientific English Lecture (U.S. Consulate Lecture) (2020.11.17)

On November 17th, the 1st year International English Department students hosted their first visiting lecturer. Dr. Anita Tam (USA) from the University of Maryland Global Campus shared her research in the field of applied psychology through her presentation titled, "A Glimpse into the Science of Applied Psychology."

Her lecture focused on the application of psychology to improve performance not only in business, community, and cross-cultural settings, but also competitive sports. It was a highly engaging topic with many students speaking with her personally after the lecture.

International Inquiry II Research Presentation

(2020.11.9 11.12. 11.19)

On November 9 and 12, the third year International English Department students held a PowerPoint presentation for the staff of Kyuyo High School. On November 19, the second year International English Department students held a poster session in the gymnasium. Many of the students were not used to giving presentations in front of adults or in front of a large audience, but despite being busy studying for exams, they were able to complete their presentations.
